Hon. James H. Mitchell's Death.

The following beautiful tribute to Hon. James H. Mitchell, who died at Bowling Green a few weeks ago, appeared in the Bowling Green Times. Deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. R. H. Crow, of this county: Can storied urn, or animated bust, Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath? Can Honor's voice provoke the silent dust, Or Flattery soothe the dull, cold ear of death? No! no! no! So, no words of flattery nor honors which he bore with such modesty, can now appeal to the Hon. James Albert Mitchell, who sleeps his last sleep in Fairview cemetery. That he was a popular man all will agree. He was an able lawyer, progressive citizen, a tender-hearted, loyal friend, and above all, a gentleman and a Christian. The good Bishop Woodcock yesterday, in effect, told us a man's shoes may be filled when he is gone but questioned how he is to be replaced in the hearts of those who loved him? Some equally able and learned lawyer may succeed Mr. Mitchell in his official position but who will fill the void in the aching hearts of those sorrowing ones to whom he was so much?

The overworked, tired-out, zealous, affable lawyer who has taken on his immortality now knows there is: "Rest, rest for the weary Peace, peace to the soul."

Here and There.

Clarence Sturgeon shot and killed Ira Brewer, Wilford McMichael, and an unknown man in Louisville. The trouble came up over a woman.

Robert Tipton, a cousin of Judge James Hargis, shot and instantly killed Miles Patrick on White Bear Creek, as a result, it is alleged, of an old grudge.

Claud Murray, a prominent Todd county farmer, was shot and instantly killed by his brother-in-law, Lee Clifton, while riding in a buggy with his wife and children.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Curators of Kentucky University, held at Lexington May 10, John S. Sweeney, for 20 years chairman, resigned and was succeeded by Judge Matt Walton.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals, in reversing a case from the Franklin Circuit Court, held that a waterworks or lighting plant operated by a city cannot be made to pay State or county taxes.

Over 1,000,000 immigrants will have entered the United States through the port of New York during the year ending June 30, according to an estimate made by Immigration Commissioners Watchorn at Ellis Island.

The Kansas City delegation was conspicuous with R. W. Hoeker at its head. He originally came from Lincoln county, Kentucky, but has been away from Kentucky for 23 years. "But for loyalty to the State," he said, "they don't beat me much. I have been back 29 times, although I am now in the banking business and my work calls for much of my personal attention. I think the Home-Coming Week line in conception and most extraordinary in execution. Thursday's Courier Journal.

Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orin's Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my personal and unqualified reference." G. L. Penny.

A Tribute To Howard D. Coleman.

Dead in the dawn of his noble young manhood,
Dead in his beauty, with life's harvest on,
Dead to the work which so oft he had dreamed of,
Dead with the daylight of boyhood scarce gone,
Dead with the hand hardly yet on the lever,
Dead to ambition of fortune or fame,
Dead to what promised a life of great purpose,
Dead to affection too sundered to name,
Dead to the hopes which upon him were centered,
Dead to the tears which above him are shed,
Dead unto all the endearments of home,
But list to the words that may lighten the shadows,
From the grave may dispel some of darkness and gloom.
Saved in the dawn of his noble young manhood
Saved from the care which cometh with strife,
Saved from the failure which has discouraged,
Saved from the byways and pitfalls of life,
Saved from all possible griefs of the future,
Saved from all possible temptations too,
Saved from the skeptic's dread power of alluring,
Saved ere the false could conquer the true,
Saved from the burdens which weary the shoulders,
Saved from the wrinkles that furrow the brow,
Saved into infinite powers of fulfillment,
Perfection complete—rest Howard—from now.

The court of Appeals by unanimous action declared section 1363 of the Kentucky statutes, governing the Sunday closing of saloons in Louisville, to be constitutional and enforceable, but declined to require Judge McCann to redocket the dismissed cases, the court assuming that he will, with pleasure, enforce the law and discharge his duty.

The Court of Appeals, in an opinion by Judge O'Rear, whole court sitting, Judge Barker dissenting, affirmed the Madison Circuit Court in the case of Berea College vs. the Commonwealth. The court holds constitutional the act of 1904 known as the Day law, prohibiting the co-education of colored and white children, and reverses as to section 4, which provides that colored and white children shall not be taught within 25 miles of each other. The court holds this limitation an unreasonable exercise of police power to the State. The court says the new law does not violate the bill of rights or the 14th amendment of the Federal constitution. The case will go on appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

Curtis Jett, in jail at Cynthiana awaiting a new trial for the murder of James B. Marcum, made a confession that makes very reading. In it Jett goes into details of the murder of Cockrell and Marcum and throws important light on the assassination of Dr. B. D. Cox. He implicates James Hargis and Ed Callahan as the chief conspirators in the Cockrell and Marcum murders, and tells of events before and after each shooting. He confesses he killed Marcum and says B. J. Evans' story of the assassination was true. He declares that he and John Smith and John Abner killed Cockrell. He implicates Hargis and Callahan strongly in the Cox murder and gives details relating thereto that have not heretofore been made public. Of Alex Hargis, Jett says, "He is an innocent man" and "he always tried to keep down trouble."

How to Break Up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. "Liar!" yelled the parrot. "Thief!" "That bird must have been brought up by a thug," observed McFlub.

"Muckraker!" "Ah, now I see. He formerly belonged to some United States Senator, and a prominent one, no doubt."

The State Encampment of the G. A. R. at Berea was a big thing. Thousands were present each day and the "boys that wore the blue" had a great time.

Milner won the gold medal offered for the first prize in the annual oratorical contest. Ernest O. Grant won the second prize, also a gold medal. Ernest O'Neal won a silver cup offered for the best tennis player.

Matt Lockhart, a prominent young Knox county farmer, dropped dead during church services on Smokey Creek. Lockhart had just made public expression of his faith and declared his belief that he would be saved, when he dropped dead. Heart trouble is given as the cause of death. Lockhart was in excellent health when he entered the building.

Upon the charge that he has sustained a $10,000 loss because of breach of contract, Karl F. Bierach brought suit last night against J. M. Thompson, of London. Mr. Thompson came to the city at a late hour last night to attend the Home-Coming celebration, and notice of the action was served upon him as he stepped off the train. Bierach says that he secured from J. J. Glenn the coal rights to 280 acres of land in Muhlenberg county, and that he transferred them to the defendant. In consideration for this transfer the plaintiff alleged that Thompson employed him for a period of five years to operate mines on the land at a salary of $100 a month. He was also to receive a commission on all coal gotten out by him over a certain amount. The plaintiff says that after working three months for the defendant the latter refused to pay him or carry out the terms of his agreement with him. He alleges that during the five years of his employment his salary and commission would have amounted to $10,000.—Louisville Times.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendations to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by W. N. Craig, the popular druggist, Stanford.

"But look at de size o' de box, lady," replied the huckster. "You don't git enough o' dem to do you no harm."—Philadelphia Press.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer's announcement of Hayden Dunn's death in that city was erroneous, according to the coroner's statement. That paper stated that the young man had committed suicide, when the coroner was undecided as to that. Mr. Dunn, like a great many boys, got too much whisky occasionally and in order to straighten up he sometimes took small pellets of morphine and it is not improbable nor impossible that he accidentally took too much this time. The bottle spoken of by the Enquirer did not contain poison, but bromidia, which is frequently taken for nervousness. The paper was also in error about the letter Col. I. M. Dunn had written his son being in young Dunn's hand. On the contrary it was in his pocket and had been well preserved. It was an exceedingly kind letter, just such an one as might have been expected from an indulgent father to a rather wayward son. Of course it is not known that Mr. Dunn did not take his life intentionally, but from the indications and the coroner's statement to Mr. M. S. Baughman, of this place, and the father it seems to us that it was an accident. Any way, there was no reason for his taking his life and it is hard for us to think that he did. Mr. Dunn was engaged with W. B. Carpenter & Co., stationery men, and was well thought of by them. He went with them in October last and his salary had been raised three times in that brief period. He was in good repute with his employees, who did every thing possible for Mr. Dunn and Mr. Baughman while they were in the city.
